- Information of unknown reliability indicates possible intentions to block the Alaska Highway at the Tagish turn-off (known as Jake's Corner). A blockade of Jake's Corner would cut off the main highway in and out of the Yukon, disrupting the supply route for all goods and services to the Territory. M Division is prepared for this possibility should it occur and last a short period. However, if a potential blockade of the Highway were to become a protracted event, M Division's capacity to effectively deal with the matter would be significantly diminished and may require Article 9 support.⁵⁸
- The RCMP continues to engage with organizers of events occurring every Thursday and Saturday in Whitehorse.⁵⁹
- Demonstrations outside the Whitehorse Legislative Assembly building have been growing in size. The RCMP is working with the government to bolster security measures as required.⁶⁰
- The Yukon University campus in Whitehorse has been identified as a possible new event site.⁶¹
